HORSE SHOW CLOSING TO-DAY

The Pembroke Fair Has Been a Big Success This Time.

WEATHER WAS FINE.

Forty Exhibitors and Fine Stock From Many States.

The Pembroke Horse Show will close to day. For once the show has been blessed by perfect weather. The show has been a pronounced success in point of attendance and in the character of stock shown.

Many horsemen from the Bluegrass section have strings of horses on hand and the show Thursday was equal almost to a similar event in Louisville. Among those who had horses were Matt S. Cohen, of Lexington; Franklin, of Glasgow; Kirby, of Bowling Green; Nichols & Son, of Joe Ray and others. All of these and others had a choice lot of stock. About forty exhibitors are on hand from the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Wisconsin. Included in the list of horses are winners at Madison Square Garden, New York, and the Louisville Horse Show. There are many famous champions of the show ring, and the meetings in the Pembroke ring have been and will be a battle royal among giants.

Hopkinsville sent out a big delegation Thursday night, probably 150 going by rail and many in vehicles.

Interest centered in the $1,000 stake offered by the fair association for five-gaited saddle horses, which was the largest stake offered by any fair association in Kentucky this year. Ten horses entered for the money and all were on hand to compete for the rich prize and the judges awarded first prize money to Edna Mae, ridden by Robert Moreland, of Lexington, with Bourbon Prince, ridden by Matt Cohen, of Lexington, second, and Indian Boy, owned and ridden by Sterling Nichols, of Bowling Green, third.

To-day is expected to be the best day of all and those who have not been should go by all means.

HOOSER-SHANKLIN.

Young People of Hopkinsville Married in Nashville.

Mr. Emmett Hooser and Miss Maud Shanklin were married in Nashville Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hooser returned Wednesday night and are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Grubbs, south of the city. They will reside here.

The groom is a popular young business man and is a brother of Mr. Jas. K. Hooser.

His bride is a daughter of Mrs. Sue C. Shanklin and is an accomplished young lady who has a host of friends. She was one of the four successful contestants in the Kentuckian's popular lady contest for a trip to the Jamestown Exposition and this is the second of the quartet to marry. Miss Mabel Dillman being the first of the four young ladies to become a bride.

EARLINGTON P. M.

Chas. G. Robinson Dies From Hemorrhage of the Brain.

Earlington, Ky., Sept. 2.—Charles G. Robinson, who has served this community as postmaster for the past eleven years in a most thoroughly satisfactory manner, and who recently received a reappointment for the fourth time, died suddenly last night of hemorrhage of the brain at the residence of his sister, where he had gone only the day before.

Mr. Robinson was 43 years old and had never married. He was one of the city's leading business men, and quite wealthy. He leaves three brothers and three sisters, as follows: Ben T. Robinson, former representative of Hopkins county, of Morton's Gap; J. W. Robinson, of the Madisonville Ice and Laundry Company, and George Robinson, who was his assistant here; Mrs. H. L. Bramwell, of Morganfield; Miss Eliza Robinson, of this city, and Mrs. King.

The funeral will be tomorrow at 10 o'clock, and will be conducted by the B. P. O. E., of which he was an active member.

PROMINENT MEN DEAD

John Frederick Kellner, president of the Central Consumers' Company, and well known in fraternal and German-American circles, died Wednesday morning of an affection of the throat. Mr. Kellner was born in Bavaria, and was a splendid type of the self-made man.

Mr. Kellner's ailment was of such a nature that he was unable to swallow, and for months he took all nourishment through a tube which had been inserted in his stomach.

Lionel Sackville-West, formerly British Minister to the United States, is dead in London.

John A. Hall, president of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, died in London.

The Rev. Francis Tiffany, preacher, author and traveler, died at his home in Cambridge, Mass. He was born in Maryland in 1827.

Word was received at the War Department of the death from heart disease at Fort Yellowstone, Wyo., of Brig. Gen. Calvin DeWitt, retired.

BASE BALL.

Elks and Woodmen to Play Fourth Game.

The ball game between the Elks and Woodmen Thursday resulted in a tie. At the end of the eleventh inning the score was 11 to 11. As each nine has a game to its credit the contest will have to be settled by another game which will be played one day next week.

Madisonville played the Hopkinsville club at Mercer Park yesterday afternoon, but the contest had not closed when we went to press. This was the third of a series.

The local nine will play Pembroke at the latter place today.

NONOGENARIAN

ALL NOMINEES FOR CONGRESS

Ten of the Present Members of Congress are Again Nominated.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS.

Democrats Expect to Redeem Third, Ninth and Tenth Districts.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 4.—The Democratic congressional nominees are as follows, those being marked as being present members:

First District—Ollie M. James. Second District—A. O. Stanley. Third District—R. Y. Thomas, Jr. Fourth District—Ben Johnson. Fifth District—Swager Sherley. Sixth District—Joseph L. Rhinock. Seventh District—J. Campbell Cantrill.

Eighth District—Harvey Helm. Ninth District—James N. Kehoe. Tenth District—Amos Davis. Eleventh District—A. G. Patterson. The congressional ticket of the Republicans of Kentucky is made up as follows:

First District—Jerry Porter. Second District—John C. Worsham. Third District—A. D. James. Fourth District—D. W. Gaddie. Fifth District—R. C. Kinkead. Sixth District—John R. Inglis. Seventh District—J. L. Bristow. Eighth District—J. W. Bethurum. Ninth District—J. B. Bennett. Tenth District—John W. Langley. Eleventh District—Don C. Edwards.

The Democrats claim that they will carry every congressional district in the State except the Eleventh, and will be able to take three of the four Congressmen away from the Republicans. On the other hand, the Republicans argue that they will not only be able to hold their own, but will annex another in the person of Mr. Kinkead, from the Fifth.

Close observing politicians in both parties concede that the tobacco troubles in Kentucky will cut a figure in the election in Kentucky this fall. Therefore, it is difficult to get any line approximating accuracy on the situation. There will be much breaking away from party lines. It is believed that the Democrats, however, will benefit by the breakdown, although they may not do so. There are any number of Republican tobacco growers, and some exceedingly prominent and influential men are going to vote the straight Democratic ticket on the ground that here in Kentucky they have witnessed the operations of the so-called tobacco trust and that "a Republican Governor has declined to institute any proceedings against the trust." On the other hand, it is said that there are Democratic tobacco growers not in sympathy with the Equity movement who applaud Gov. Willson's course and who will vote the Republican ticket this fall. However, the Democrats say there are more tobacco growers in the organization than there are on the outside, and the fact that all the growers' organizations in the State are absolutely in control of the situation and their respective outputs indicates the strength of the organization men over the anti-organization men.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 2.—Because "Jack," a $50 bull pup, shook the life out of a little dog belonging to Joe Jones, of this city, the animal was ordered killed by the police. When two policemen went to execute the order, "Jack" held out his paw and shook hands with them. This melted their hearts and they refused to kill the dog.

FATHER AND SON DIE OF POISON

Mother Also Made Very Ill by Eating of Fungus, Mistaken for Mushrooms.

A HOME STRICKEN.

Father Gathered Poison Fungus and Wife Refused to Cook it for Him.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 2.—As a result of eating a fungus growth supposed to be mushrooms, Thomas Bysinger and his two sons of near Livermore, are dead, and Mrs. Bysinger is in a critical condition. Bysinger was a prominent farmer of McLean county. The dead boys were 11 and 13 years old.

Bysinger gathered the fungus growth in the woods off a hickory log. He thought he had found a fine lot of mushrooms. His wife refused to cook the alleged delicacy, saying that the stuff was poison. Bysinger insisted that he knew a mushroom when he saw it and laughed at his wife's fears. He took the alleged mushrooms to the home of one of his tenants and there had them cooked. To prove that he was right and his wife was wrong, Bysinger carried the cooked dish back home and ate heartily of the fungus growth. He induced his two sons to eat with him. Mrs. Bysinger was still cautious and ate sparingly. Within two hours the father and two sons were made critically ill. Physicians were summoned from Livermore and worked heroically with the afflicted trio. While assisting to care for her husband and two sons, Mrs. Bysinger also suffered a critical attack of poisoning from the fungus she had eaten. She was so sick that she did not know until hours later that her husband and sons had died at the same instant. Physicians in attendance believe that Mrs. Bysinger will recover. The triple funeral will be held on Wednesday morning. In addition to her illness of poison, the fond wife and mother is prostrated with a terrible grief.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

AID FOR DROWNING.

Approved Method of Applying Artificial Respiration.

The most approved method of resuscitation in cases of drowning and asphyxiation was described by Professor Edward A. Schaefer of Edinburgh, Scotland, in a paper on artificial respiration, read to the section on surgery and anatomy of the American Medical Association, which met recently at Chicago. Professor Schaefer was chairman of a special committee of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society of London appointed to investigate the subject, and his paper was the result of that body's inquiry.

The method is one which can be used by one person without fatigue and make possible resuscitation in a case either of drowning or asphyxiation. "Lay the patient flat on his face," said Professor Schaefer. "This throws the tongue forward out of the mouth, leaving the air passages unobstructed, and does away with the necessity for holding the tongue. It also permits the water to run from the mouth."

"Kneel beside the patient and place the hands one on each side of the backbone in the small of the back, about the line of the lowest ribs. "Then by throwing weight forward on the hands a vertical pressure is effected with little fatigue to the operator."

"The downward pressure should last three seconds. This empties the lungs. The pressure should then be stopped for two seconds, and the lungs will naturally refill. This process should be repeated twelve times a minute. "Careful tests by a spirometer show that this method gives more than the normal amount of air to the patient, while other methods give much less than the amount ordinarily breathed."

BLEACHING TOWER.

New Method of Purifying Grain Laden and Discolored Germ.

The latest type of grain bleaching tower is constructed of concrete, says Popular Mechanics, the shelves being of wood, so that they can be removed or renewed. Across the bridge connecting with the working elevator is a trough containing a twelve inch screw conveyor by which the grain is carried into the bleaching tower. As it falls over the shelves steam permeates

GRAIN BLEACHING TOWER, through the mesh long before the sulphur fumes are reached. Another conveyor at the bottom removes the purified grain.

The persistence of elevator men who have bleaching towers running up through their elevators shows there is little danger of fire from such a source, but the majority of insurance companies request that they be placed outside. The bleaching tower is used for cleaning the discolored coats of grain and destroying germs. Oats are the most discolored on arrival at the elevators, but by this treatment the grains are turned out a rich yellow. Wheat and barley are also run through bleaching towers when their condition needs it.

Phonographic Fire Alarms.

An ingenious combination of phonograph and telephone is described as forming an effective fire alarm. In the building to be protected telephonic transmitters provided with phonographic rolls containing a set of words precisely describing the location of the fire are connected in the various rooms with thermostats. When the temperature reaches a certain point the thermostats automatically switch the phonographs in front of the transmitters and set them at work grinding out the telltale words which are heard over the wire at the fire engine station, informing the firemen where they should go.

How to Clean Engine Paint.

Engine paint may be cleaned by applying a solution of one gallon water, four ounces of borax and one-half pint of lard oil. Stir this into a perfect emulsion and apply a coat of it to the surface of the paint and let it remain for a little while, then rub off clean with a rag or waste, says the English Mechanic. Be sure to remove the composition before it becomes dry. Add more borax if the solution is not strong enough.

Treatment of Dog Bites.

The immediate treatment of dog bites or scratches is very important. These should be squeezed and sucked and pressed so as to make the blood come freely, then should be washed to the very bottom with a blunt, partly burnt match soaked wet with pure carbolic or nitric acid, to be followed by the Pasteur treatment if the physician thinks a case warrants. Dr. A. Jennings is Philadelphia Ledger.

 But even that did not seem to satisfy him. Some men are hard to please—Cleveland Leader.

Summer Barnstormers.
 "What's them that actor folks doing prowling around in the hot sun?" asked the postmaster of Bacon Ridge. "They say they want to get the lay of the town," said the village cut-throat. "Wal, they needn't be in any hurry about that. They'll get the lay of the town and the country both tonight. The boys are out buying up every egg within four miles."—Detroit Tribune.

Gleomy Outlook.
 "What are you worried about, Rastus?"
 "I's worried 'bout rain, dat's what I's worried 'bout, an' I reckons I's gwinter keep worried all summer."
 "But it is almost sure to rain before long."
 "Yessuh. But when it do's it almost sure to be de toughest or not enough."—Washington Star.

Welcome Punishment.
 A little boy went to church with his mother. The service was somewhat long and utterly incomprehensible to the child; consequently he fidgeted. His mother reproved him several times. At last she leaned toward him. "Baby," she whispered, "if you act badly I'll never bring you to church again." A gleam of hope dawned in Bobby's weary eyes. "Mamma," he said eagerly, "how bad will I have to be?"

Holiday in Tennessee.

A few days ago Governor Malcolm R. Patterson, in recognition of the value of the State Fair to the people of Tennessee and as a compliment to the several Governors of the neighboring States who will visit the State Fair on Tuesday September 24—which will be "Tennessee Day and Governor's Day"—has issued the following proclamation:

Galveston Next to New York.

The Galveston News of Sept. 1 shows a large shipping business done at that port.

Galveston maintains its rank among the ports of the United States. It continues to stand next to the port of New York in the value of its foreign imports.

During the year 1907-08 1,544 ships, with a net tonnage of 3,776,212, entered and cleared at the port of Galveston.

This port is served by thirty regular lines in the foreign service. In addition to these regular lines many tramp steamers are chartered. There was an increase during the past year in the coastwise service. Taken altogether the shipping facilities during the year were quite equal to the demand.

A statement of the business of the Galveston postoffice for the year shows a total of $181,842, compared with $129,249 for the previous year. During the fiscal year there were 9,406 arrivals of aliens at the port of Galveston.

The receipts from all sources at the custom house during the past year amounted to $542,637.

During the past year imports free of duty to the amount of $4,179,964 were entered at Galveston. Imports dutiable amounted to $1,615,335. The total value of foreign goods handled at Galveston during 1907-08 was $7,407,698. Mexico stands first in the value of imports by countries, the amount being $3,226,255. The United Kingdom is second, with a valuation of $1,061,312. British East India is third, with a valuation of $234,466.

The Dose That Mother Gave.

How back across the vanished years our thoughts at times will roam, Ere for the wide and busy world we left our childhood's home; We think of how the old house looked, with vines around the door, And how we used to marbles roll across the old barn floor; We view the meadows far away, where daisies used to grow, And meet again the boys and girls who left us long ago; But if to think of mother's pies, we sometimes lie awake, We ne'er forget the castor oil she used to make us take.

Our thoughts go back to the old barn, with swallow-covered eaves, Where, from the spring amid the trees, we'd push the fallen leaves; Again we climb the old haymow to find the stolen nest, And, with a caseknife in our hands, of spring greens go in quest. Once more we wade the meadow brook, the butterflies we chase, And wipe again, with ragged sleeve, the sweat from off our face, The boyish appetite comes back, which naught could ever spoil, Not e'en the dose that mother gave, the dose of castor oil.

That was before the styles came in that we enjoy to-day.

For then the nearest doctor lived a dozen miles away;

On every corner that you passed a druggist was not known, So every family then must have a doctor of its own;

And if the children e'er took sick, disease to quickly foil,

Our dear old mother always ran and got the castor oil;

And, though the very sight of it would make us cringe and shake, No doubt it often saved our lives, the dose she made us take.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe, for children. All druggists sell it.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Hopkinsville People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Hopkinsville who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Hopkinsville. Here's Hopkinsville testimony:

Mr. Francis Brown, 104 Fourth street, cor. Mechanic street, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "There is no doubt about Doan's Kidney Pills being all that is claimed for them and you are at liberty to use my name in defense of that statement. I was annoyed for years with backache which came on by spells especially when I contracted a cold. About four years ago I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procuring them at Thomas & Traher's drug store, now conducted by L. A. Johnson & Co. I was not disappointed with the results obtained. After taking a dose or two of the remedy I knew that it was acting directly on my kidneys and in a short time the trouble ceased. During the past four years I have appealed to Doan's Kidney Pills some six or seven times when having a light attack of my former complaint and I can candidly state that in each case I have been quick and lasting relief. Mr. Brown has also used them with equally good results. We both think a great deal of Doan's Kidney Pills and have always kept them in the house."

SCHOOL SUGGESTIONS

As to The County Board of Education.

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:—

I believe it was Prof. Cassidy who said that under the old school law there had not yet been found a man in this State who did not think himself eminently qualified for the office of school trustee, and it was the wide divergence between this self-conceived qualification and essential fitness that made shipwreck of the late school system. I think the lack of interest on the part of the patrons and the neglect of duty on the part of trustees were patent factors in its failure.

An ideal Board of Education would be composed of trained educators, but as that is not possible in country districts, no doubt the district trustees will elect the most competent men to serve on the County Boards. The responsibilities resting on the Boards of Education are of much greater and the manner of electing same so much better safeguarded under the new law there will be no fear of failure on account of incompetency or neglect of duty—however, the condition of the schools two years hence will accurately measure both their efficiency and their zeal. Believing that a body of men so intelligent are keenly alive to the need and necessity for the best rural schools for our county, we beg permission of the honorable board to call their attention to some things we think they should seriously consider before deciding upon any line of action.

To meet the requirements of enlarged districts some new houses will have to be built, others repaired and enlarged; would it not be wise to thoroughly consider the question of consolidating the schools of one or more districts. The Board knows this has been done in several States to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. The additional cost of conveying the children to and from the central school is more than offset by the saving in building and maintaining separate houses, besides the advantages of grading the pupils, combining the teachers, conducting to the health and comfort of the children, bringing large areas together in social acquaintance, and the great advantage in regularity of attendance.

If the decision is against consolidated schools after all the consideration the idea deserves, we suggest that the first effort be made and the first money expended in furnishing up-to-date houses and grounds to each and every subdistrict school in the county. In these are laid the foundation of all after education, in which they will begin and end the schooling of the majority of our country children. Look to these schools first and, when this is done, go forward and build as many normal schools as the county needs.

There are three things essential to the success of any public enterprise—zeal, intelligence and money. The first two essentials the Honorable Board already possess, the third, Christian county is abundantly able to furnish. Everything human is perfected by comparison. If the County Board is not satisfied that it can give us the very best equipped schools in the land, let them closely acquaint themselves with the schools of other States, particularly the Northwest, where the school commission sent to this country some time ago by the British government, affirmed they found the best common school system in the world. Or let them look to the New South and ascertain what they have done for popular education within the past few years.

In an issue of the World's Work a year or two ago, the editor said: "It is significant that in the South this movement to broaden the influence of the public schools begins just when somewhat similar work begins in some of the Northwestern States. In the vocabulary of both these sections of the Union 'education' is becoming to mean 'training' and country boys and girls are taught, not by a system of pedagogics that stops with the acquisition of a few facts that are got from books, but by a system that lays hold on the whole life of the people. There is promise that the public schools will become a new sort of force in American life everywhere. Their delayed development in the South gives an opportunity greatly to broaden their basis. Pedagogical traditions and long entrenched theories of popular education are not in the way of improvement there. Educational method until recent years has been the most stubbornly conservative thing in modern life, and the hand of the school man of the middle ages is yet visible in much of the work done in our democracy of the twentieth century. That a great movement for the better adaptation, especially of rural schools, to modern life and needs should arise in the South is natural and is a striking proof of the value of a democracy as a field for all sorts of social experiments and all sorts of social progress. It would be a striking fact (and it is not at all improbable) if the character of our whole public school system should suffer a change as the result of this Southern movement."

MISS PECK'S GUIDES

Famous Woman Mountain Climber's Experiences With Them.

HER TRIP UP MOUNT SORATA.

Story of How Her Faint Hearted Aids Tried to Frighten Her by Striking For More Pay—Prima Requirement For a Mountain Climber—Lack of Confidence Cause of Most Accidents.

Miss Annie S. Peck, who astonished mountain climbers the world over by announcing recently that she had climbed 25,000 feet toward the top of Mount Huascarán, in the Andes, is a native of Providence, R. I. She began her career as a mountain climber in 1882 while studying in Athens, that year, with a number of her friends, she ascended Hymettus and Pentelics, and the experience so thrilled her that she became a life convert to this form of sport. Miss Peck has been professor of Latin in South college and has spoken on art and archeology before the American Geographical society, the National Geographical society and many colleges and institutions all over the country.

Miss Peck's climbing costume comprises a heavy pair of leather shoes, with iron nails in the soles and heels; a heavy knit sweater and a pair of man's knickerbockers. Her hat is always tied down by a veil. She carries a heavy iron pointed stick.

One of Miss Peck's favorite stories is of the time when her guides, becoming faint hearted, but not wishing to show it to a woman, fixed up a deal to ask for increases of wages so great that she could not pay them. Then they struck and refused to climb farther.

"It was on my trip up Mount Sorata, in Bolivia," she said, "that my guides struck. With me were two Spanish-Americans and five half breed Indians. We pushed up until the 5,000 foot limit was reached, and then one of the Spaniards turned coward and left us. I then found that the other one was half wild. The Indians were growing discontented as we continued.

"They delighted in telling the story that those who looked from the summit turned to stone. They wanted to frighten me so I would not go up any farther. Nevertheless we went on. Then at the 17,500 foot point the guides struck for more pay. I offered them double, and even then they were not satisfied. Then I made it treble, but that did not satisfy them. At last they refused absolutely to go farther, and we had to return, although within a few hundred feet of the top. The top of Sorata reached 20,500 feet into the clouds.

"A second attempt, made within three months, on this same mountain got me no farther toward the summit for the same reasons. The guides quit. They were afraid of something, just what I could never determine. I did want a couple of good old Swiss guides. You can rely upon them."

Miss Peck in 1896 delivered an address in Infantry hall, Providence, in which she told of the desire born in her to climb mountains, which, she said, came to her in the early eighties when she was within sight of the Matterhorn. She told her story as follows:

"When I first came in sight of the summit of the great Matterhorn I was seized with a desire to climb to the top and look out over the great expanse of earth that I knew must be visible from such a height. Ever since the day I first looked up at its peaked top I intended to climb up there despite the fact that people laughed at me when I told them about my desire.

"So it was, notwithstanding letters advising me not to try from many other mountain climbers of reputation. I went there one day determined to get to the top, or, rather, to get as near the top as it was possible.

"I went to Switzerland just for the purpose of climbing the Matterhorn, and, as you see, I have climbed it and am back here to tell you about it. But now maybe you think I wasn't afraid to start. Well, I wasn't exactly afraid, but I tell you I was skeptical.

"Before I started up the mountain I picked out the spot where I wanted to be buried should I be to die on the trip and my body found. There is a little English cemetery in Zermatt, and I told those about me that I wanted to rest there if I was never to return to my home. Many predecessors were buried there, mountain climbers who had been overwhelmed upon the sides of the great Matterhorn.

"The prime requirement for a successful mountain climber must be determination, accompanied with a strong heart and physical strength. One must have good lungs and a steady head, and a person who will become dizzy under any circumstances should never try to climb a mountain.

"It is also necessary for a person to be able to climb for fifteen or eighteen hours a day steadily over the hardest kind of climbing one can imagine. Most of the accidents are due to lack of confidence or too much confidence and action from anything else. Folly, of course, and bravado lose many lives a year, but among the experienced climbers the accidents are comparatively few."

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. THE HUMAN ENGINE.

To Operate This Masterpiece Air is the First Necessity.

Of all the engines ever devised by man none can equal that masterpiece of construction, the engine of the human frame. To run that engine air is the first necessity. Construct it as you will, the greater part of the energy which feeds a power plant is lost before it reaches the applying machine. The body only has the power of using energy really economically and efficiently. Its food is its fuel. To be available all the constituents of that food must be burned, producing heat and power. The oxygen of the air is essential. Equally true is it that nitrogen must be present to prevent the rapid combustion which would take place in oxygen alone. But, whether the combustion be fast or slow, the action is the same. The body burns the carbon and hydrogen of its food and produces the oxides of these substances, carbon dioxide (carbon acid gas) and hydrogen oxide (water). The water that is formed within the body is the burning of hydrogen is comparatively slight importance in a consideration of the vital questions of the effect of city air upon the individual, but the other factor, the carbon dioxide formed in the body, is of direct importance.—Hollis Godfrey in Atlantic.

FOOD FOR CANNIBALS.

One of the Many Tragedies Enacted in Polynesia.

It is not so very long ago that cannibalism was rife throughout Polynesia, so that to be killed, cooked and eaten was the almost invariable fate of sailors who chanced to be so unfortunate as to be cast away on any of the outlying little islets.

Perhaps the most awful tragedy of the kind on record was that which happened in connection with the loss of the St. Paul, Captain Penard, while on a voyage from Hongkong to Sydney. This fine steamship carried, besides a full crew, 327 passengers, mostly emigrants.

On Sept. 30, 1858, she was wrecked on the island of Rossel, but all got safely on shore. A little later the captain and eight of the crew left the island in search of assistance and were picked up by the Prince of Denmark schooner. Eventually the French steamer Styx was dispatched to the island and brought away one emigrant. The remaining 320 had been massacred and devoured by the natives.—Pearson's Weekly.

Philadelphia's Anti-Tipping Scheme.
A Philadelphia acquaintance has invented a way of getting rid of the "brushing" nuisance. He places a silver quarter in the bottom of his right hand and, turning to the boy who is pretending to find dust upon his clothes, says:
"You are such a tremendous 'brusher' I will give you this money if you can brush it out of my hand."

"Yes, sir," answers the boy with gleam in his eye, and he brushes the quarter. In that case he gives up the job.

As a general proposition, the most facile "brushing" will be swept up and rein off a human hand. Why this happens to be true will be less understood after the reader has tried it himself. One might almost say that a coin cannot be brushed with a whisk broom off the back as well as out of the palm of a hand.

Give the boy three tries and then return the money to your pocket.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Why, of Course!

The editor of an agricultural paper was grumbling about a puzzling question he had received from a city man who had recently removed to the country. The inquiry was this: "Will you kindly tell me how long cows should be milked?"

The office boy, passing near, heard his superior repeating the question aloud.
"Scuse me, boss," he said, "but why don't yer tell him jes' de same's short cows?"—Judge.

A Wart Supplication.

Boys in the west of England believe that by squeezing a mole to death between the hands and touching the affected parts with the blood that oozes from the mouth of the dying animal warts will disappear and will not reappear. The culprits are convinced that moles, worms and other subterranean dwellers have no feelings, and therefore it is not cruelty to put them to death in this way.

Scarcity of English Humor.

It is to be feared that if the papers received a special corner once each week for the witicism of the week it would be often left blank. There is no wit to speak of today, only a feeble imitation of it which people are fond of calling the saving sense of humor.—London Saturday Review.

Skilled.

"How did you acquire such skill?" asked the inquisitive one of the clever juggler.

"Why, I have a natural talent—be- reditary, I might say. My father used to eat peas with a knife."—Judge.

Just a Change.

"Poor man! Have you always been blind?"

"No, mum," answered Tired Tiffins sulkily. "Last week I was lame, but now I'm blind."—London Saturday Review.

A CURIOUS ELEVATOR.

Novel Form of Electric Lift Employed at a Hillside Hotel.

A novel form of electric elevator has recently been installed in one of the new hotels at St. Moritz, in Switzerland.

The hotel is built on the hillside overlooking the lake at St. Moritz. The elevator is used for conveying passengers from the lower level to the main floor of the hotel. The car resembles that of an ordinary elevator, but is mounted so as always to hang vertically, swinging on an axis supported by trolley running on elevated rails. As will be seen from the illustration, the inclination of the rails is much steeper at the top than at the bottom. The rails are mounted on a light lattice-work structure, supported by steel towers.

The working load of the car is 1,000 pounds, or six passengers, and the normal speed of travel is 148 feet per minute. The total height of lift is about 92 feet, and the total length of travel, measured along the curved track, is about 132 feet. The apparatus is driven by a three phase motor, supplied with current at 250 volts, 50 cycles.

The elevator is worked by a patented form of geared drum, for which a high efficiency is claimed, resulting in low current consumption. The gearing is of the double reduction type, with the motor and drum shafts in line, and is composed of cast steel double bevel wheels, with accurately machined teeth inclosed in a cast iron gear case and running in oil. Care has been taken in the construction of the drum to make the grooves to accurately fit the diameter of the rope, in order to minimize wear. The ropes themselves are made of steel, with a factor of safety of ten.

WAGING WAR ON RATS.

Measures Taken in England to Exterminate the Pest.

The war against rats is being waged vigorously in Great Britain, where the annual damage they cause is variously estimated at amounts ranging from $20,000,000 to $75,000,000. Potatoes infected with a tasteless germ are placed within reach, and this germ—harmless to man—is expected to cause a rapid decrease of the rodents by spreading a fatal disease among them. As a further step the Society for the Destruction of Vermin seeks to set a price on the animal's head, having offered a prize of 10 guineas and a diploma for the best method of making ratkins commercially useful. Taking the London and India docks as examples of the seriousness of the plague, it is stated that each of the twenty-seven sheds stands on an acre of ground and is estimated to harbor 2,000 rats under its floors, making a total rodent population of 54,000 for these docks. Each rat is charged with damage of at least a farthing a day, giving a total yearly loss of more than $50,000.

Hardness of Metals.

A novel device for measuring the hardness of metals is called the scleroscope by Albert F. Shore and Dr. Paul Herold, its inventors. A steel ball weighing forty grains, made extremely hard by a special process, is inclosed in a glass tube, and the hardness is indicated by the rebound as the ball is dropped on the metal under test. A scale measures the height of rebound. In this scale 100 is the average hardness for carbon steel and proves to be the safety limit for steel tools after reheating and tempering. The instrument is valuable in making tools of standard hardness.

An Impregnable Safe.

A remarkable burglar proof safe has been placed in a bank in England. At night the safe is lowered on cables into an impregnable metallic lined subvault of masonry and concrete. After reaching the bottom it is fastened down by massive steel lugs operated by a triple time lock. Until these bars are released automatically at a desired time, no human agency can raise the safe, and to break in through the mass of stone and concrete, which measures 10 by 10 by 10 feet, with dynamite would require the building without making it possible to get at the safe.

Needle Threading Machine.

A machine which threads a thread and needles a minute is at work in a Swiss factory. The purpose of the machine is to thread needles that are placed afterwards in a loom for making lace. The device is almost entirely automatic. It takes the needle, carries it along, threads it, fits the knot, cuts it, threads off a uniform length, then carries the needle across

The picturesque feature of the great West are well symbolized in the general make-up of the picture of The Young Ranchman, which decorates the front cover of the September American Boy, and the contents of the magazine will prove delightful reading. The serials by Houston, Tomlinson, and Opie, with Mr. Weir's vivid experience—Under the Great White Canvas, are continued. Among the many fine short stories in this issue are: Ken-ton's League with the Sun, telling of some of the thrilling experience of the Kentucky pioneer with the Indians; The Story of Spot, a Mustang, shows the splendid devotion of a pony to his young master; The Penance of Michael Moran points out the good that is in even the most troublesome boy; Facing Death in a Balloon, a thrilling story of the experience of a boy in a balloon.

"I have dyspepsia, but you never hear me growl about it." "Never growl about it? Well, then, you haven't got it."

Very Neighborly.
"Good afternoon," said Mrs. Nagg, with icy politeness, to her next door neighbor. "Would you mind not looking out when my visitors are passing? It makes the place look vulgar."
"Thought they were broken 'uns," replied Mrs. Snapp pleasantly. "You and your sister, or charwoman, or whatever she is, are not the kind that men visitors run after much, are you?"
"Better than some people whose 'us-bus have run away from them," observed her neighbor.
"What do you mean, ma'am?" "I mean no names; their 'us-bus may be in prison or they may not. 'Are you seen my doormat, by the bye? I missed it yesterday!"
"When I become a thief, ma'am, I'll steal something that's clean."
"Well, I must go," said Mrs. Nagg cordially. "I wish I could stop, but I've got to call on a lady."
"And so, of course, you feel awkward. Going to ask for a place as a cook, perhaps. Well, I shan't keep you, ma'am. Good evening!"—London Scraps.

ZEPPELIN'S GREAT AIRSHIP.

Bedrooms and Working Room in German Count's Machine.

Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin's great dirigible airship, in which he recently started on a two-day four-hour flight, measures 435 feet and is forty feet wide in its widest part. It is of a rigid type, in which the count firmly believes. It thus is opposed to the nonrigid dirigible balloons favored by the experts of the French, English and German armies. The gas bag is made rigid by dividing it into sixteen gas tight compartments. Beneath hang two large water tight aluminum cars. These contain the motor, steering apparatus and other machinery. The car will carry twenty-five persons. The principle on which the machine rises is that the gas shall be sufficient to reduce the weight of the machine to less than the rising and control of the ship are wholly matters for the motors and planes attached to the sides of the gas bag.

This sounds very easy of accomplishment, but years were required before the count could find the right angle at which to place the planes. He uses four. The upper pair slant upward, and the lower slant downward. By this means the balloon is perfectly stable in ordinary wind. Four pairs of vertical planes near the prow of the balloon are used to give the ship an upward or downward slope. There are six propellers, driven by the eighty-three horsepower motors.

The airship is housed in a floating shed near the village of Manzell, on Lake Constance, about 600 feet from the shore. It rests on the floor. The shed can be towed, as its float is large enough. When it is ready for an ascension the airship is run out of the shed, the bell ropes, ropes are thrown off, the rubber planes inclined upward and the propellers set going. It gracefully lifts its bow, speeds along a little and then rises, guided by its inventor and his engineer, Herr Durr.

When it is desired to discharge and take on passengers a motor boat speeds up to the front car, and the passengers easily and safely leave the airship. The next moment it rises and takes any direction desired by the motor. It has an area radius of 1,400 miles. There are bedrooms, working room, writing desk and other furniture and every comfort for twelve passengers for night service. There are a powerful searchlight and wireless telegraph apparatus on board. The count's aim is to be able to speed forty miles an hour.

It is not generally known that Count Zeppelin is a veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic. He served through the American civil war as a cavalry officer in the Army of the Mississippi in the brigade commanded by General Carl Schurz. At the battle of Fredericksburg the young German cavalryman owed his escape from capture to a brilliant feat of horsemanship, which carried him through the line of bayonets with which he had been encircled. It is said that it was in the Union service that the count made his first balloon ascension, which created his interest in aeronautics. It was in a captive balloon sent up to observe the Confederate lines.

DOUBLE VEIL FAD.

Worn From Bridge of the Nose, Showing Eyes and Forehead.

The double veil fad, which was discarded two seasons ago by general request of the men because it was an impossibility to tell who was bowing to them, has been renewed with vigor at Newport, R. I. The other morning at the casino Mrs. Philip M. Lydig came in for tennis wearing a heavy dark brown veil over a white tulle effect, and as another woman shook Mrs. Lydig by the hand she remarked, "I hardly knew you." Mrs. Lydig replied, "I'm sure I did not know who you were till you spoke."

Then in came Miss Anna Sands with another double veil showing only her eyes and a portion of the forehead, and Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll followed. These veils are either of brown, green or white and are caught in the back of the head and worn from the bridge of the nose and well under the chin. The eyes and forehead only are shown.

It was a wave of veils at the casino. Mrs. Smith Hollis McKim of New York came in wearing a white serge morning gown with a lavender colored parasol, it panned her and turned up in front and down in the back, with a silk tulle veil trailing almost to the ground. Miss Ethelinda C. Morgan, Mrs. Oliver Harrison and Mrs. Joseph R. Dilworth were the extremely long drooping veils.

Young Roosevelt's Canoe Stunt.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., recently started a new fad at Manchester, Mass., which, from the number of imitators, bids fair to become popular with the younger members of the north shore summer colony. The stunt consists in running a canoe through the surf to a distance of a hundred feet from the shore and then letting it be carried to the sands on the crest of high waves. Five times out of six the copping waves swamp the craft before land is reached and there is rare sport recovering it.

GRANTING PATENTS.

Invention as Distinguished From Men's Mechanical Skill.

A patent cannot properly be granted protecting the product of mere mechanical skill as distinguished from invention. Difficulty is frequently experienced in distinguishing between the two, and the supreme test for determining whether a particular device is the result of mechanical skill is not whether an ordinary mechanic could make the device if it were suggested to him, but whether he would make it without suggestions save those which are prompted by his skill and knowledge of his art.

For example, if a man constructs out of iron a machine which had previously been made out of wood he does not thereby become an inventor in a legal sense, because everybody knows that any constructor can build a machine out of iron instead of wood. But suppose that gunpowder had just recently been discovered and that the man who invented it had applied for and obtained a patent upon it. He might have claimed, "I combine saltpetre, sulphur and charcoal in a certain way and produce a startling result" and it would be no answer, if an action for infringement were brought, for the infringer to say that every chemist could make the powder after he had been shown how, for, if every chemist did so, it would be the knowledge as well as the skill, the originating of the powder constituted invention—Exchange.

PECULIAR TREES.

They Yield Bread, Butter and Milk, Soap and Candies.

The breadfruit tree of Ceylon is very remarkable. Its fruit is baked and eaten as we eat bread and is equally good and nutritious. In Barbadoes, South America, is a tree which, by piercing the trunk, produces milk, with which the inhabitants feed their children. In the interior of Africa is a tree which produces excellent butter. It resembles the American oak, and its fruit is not unlike the olive. First, the great traveler, declared that the butter surpassed any made in England from cow's milk. At Sierra Leone is the cream fruit tree, the fruit of which is quite agreeable to taste.

At Table Bay, near the Cape of Good Hope, is a small tree the berries of which make excellent candy. The vegetable talow tree also grows in Sumatra, in Algeria and in China. In the island of Cebu large quantities of oil and talow are extracted from its fruit, which is gathered in November or December, when the tree has lost all its leaves. The bark of a tree in China produces a beautiful soap. Trees of the sapindus or soap berry order also grow in the north of Africa. They are exceedingly prolific, and their fruit contains about 88 per cent of capelin.

A Bachelor and a Widow.

"Bachelor," said the widow, "are the most sensitive people on earth. At any rate, the bachelors I know are. I dated with one not long ago. During the first part of the meal he seemed uneasy."

"If any of my friends see me," he said, "they will think I am dining with some other man's wife."

"Why? I asked.

"He pointed to my wedding ring."

"Shall I take it off?" I asked.

"Would you mind?" said he.

"Why at all," I said and slipped off the ring.

"Since then when going anywhere with that bachelor or any other bachelor by taking off my wedding ring before we start. I find they appreciate my consideration for their feelings. Now, if that isn't sensitive raised to the ninth power I'd like to know what it is."—New York Press.

The Flow of Rivers.

The flow of rivers, as might be supposed, is the slowest at the bottom of the water and highest at the top. The average velocity of the entire stream is found, as a rule, at about six-tenths of the depth. The friction of the bottom which retards the movement of the deepest water is much greater, relatively to the whole volume of the stream, in a shallow river than in a deep one.

Womankind.

"In my opinion," said Jones, "a woman's club to be successful should aim at something far removed from female suffrage."

"I do not agree with you," retorted Miss Strong, with an lip. "That should be its object."

"Exactly, but if it aims at something else it is more likely to hit that."—Philadelphia Press.

Looking Backward.

"Some people have queer ideas of sentiment."

"For example?"

"I know a man who treasures the slipper his mother used to spank him with."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THREAT OF DEATH

Held Over Will Ingram, Confessed Night Rider.

Says He Was Forced to Publish Card Denying Former Statements.

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 2.—Will Ingram, of Calloway county, who published a statement that his night rider confession was false and procured by duress, is under arrest on the charge of perjury and warrants have been issued for the arrest of Jasper Garland, Allen Weatherford and Peter Kirk on the charge of subordination of perjury.

Ingram, when arrested, made a second confession, in which he said that he was forced to publish the denial under threat of death, and he named the three men for whom warrants were sworn out, as threatening him.

Ingram made a confession at Otter Pond to Captain Walker, a militia officer, and testified in the trial of Jake Ellis. He said he was a night rider and his testimony resulted in the indictment of Kaise Kirk, Jasper Garland, Bob Duncan and Ed Thompson, for participating in the raid on Hendrick's place.

Last week, Ingram published a denial of his confession in the Murray Ledger and declared that Judge Wells and Clarence Dyer, an enemy of the night riders, extorted the confession from him.

In this confession, made before Magistrate Holland, Ingram says that part of the conspiracy was to impeach Judge Wells on his statement. Ingram said that while he was working in the woods, Weatherford and Garland visited him and told him that unless he published a statement in the Murray Ledger, contradicting the facts of his own confession and impeaching Judge Wells, he would not live three weeks. Ingram said then he went to the home of Peter Kirk, father of Kaise Kirk, and Kirk told him what to say and repeated the threat. He says he also was admonished to begin at once spreading the report that his confession was not genuine. Ingram's hearing will be to-morrow morning.

KILLED IN DARK

Calloway Man Mistakes His Wife For Night Rider.

Murray, Ky., Sept. 4.—Reports have reached the city that J. F. Dalton, who lives in the eastern part of the county, near Shannon, on the Tennessee river, shot and killed his wife Wednesday night.

Mr. Dalton lives in a portion of the "night rider" district of this county and within the past few days received a warning notice from "night riders." Upon hearing an unusual noise about the premises, Dalton and his wife both got up and went into the yard. Dalton requested his wife to return to the house and she did so, going through a rear door. When Dalton came back his wife was still outside and her husband fired upon her. Mrs. Dalton was shot in the head and lived about three hours. Dalton was operating a saw mill and has only lived in this county about six weeks, having come here from Missouri.

ANOTHER FIRE

New Hotel Comes Near Burning.

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 2.—Murray was visited by another fire about 2 o'clock this morning and for a time it seemed that the new Murray hotel, in the same block where the last conflagration occurred, would be destroyed. Heroic work saved it after the restaurant underneath was ruined by the flames. The loss is about $500. The fire broke out in the front part of the building. The building belongs to Rev. W. J. Beal, a Baptist minister, who has vigorously condemned night riding in his public utterances.

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 4.—Deputy United States Marshal Elwood Neel left Wednesday night for Marshall and Lyon counties to serve summons on the seventy-one defendants in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Nat Frizzell, colored, in the United States court here. Frizzell alleges that the defendants were night riders who visited Birmingham, Marshall county, March 10, 1908, and shot and unmercifully whipped him. He said he left the state and is now a resident of Massac county, Ill.

Deputy Neel was accompanied by J. J. Chambers, one of the defendants, who will act as guide.

NEW PRECINCT COMMITTEEMEN

Will Be Elected By Members Of the Association To-day.

SOME CONTESTS ARE ON

Two Of the Old Officers Are Not Candidates for Re-election.

Precinct Committeemen for the Planter's Protective Association will be elected all over the district to-day. The Committeemen chosen will meet at the county seats on next Saturday and choose a chairman, vice chairman and secretary.

In Christian county these positions are filled by W. W. Radford, W. T. Fowler and W. A. Glass.

It is understood that Mr. Radford is a candidate for a higher position and is not a candidate for re-election as county chairman. Mr. Glass took the position of secretary last year under protest and it is understood that he will not consent to serve again.

Mr. Fowler's intentions are not known. He has been vice chairman for two or three years.

The indications are that there will be some strong contests in the districts for local committeemen.

The new Committee made up of county chairmen will elect all officers of the Association.

NEBLETT DEAD.

Tinner Who Fell From Window Expires In Cadiz

(Record)

Poor Ed Neblett is no more. After years of suffering and pain, both of mind and body, the end came Tuesday morning in this city, the direct cause of which is no doubt being the fall from the second story window of a hotel in Hopkinsville several weeks ago. He was about forty-eight years of age. He came to Cadiz from Lafayette in 1889 with his father, with whom he was associated in the tin business, and had made this his home almost continuously ever since.

Hon. James B. Garnett has been much better for the past week, and is able to come down town almost every day. The change for the better is gratifying to his friends.

Capt. Ed. C. Walker entertained a small party very pleasantly at his camp at Golden Pond Tuesday evening. The supper was served in true camp style, and was much enjoyed. The guests present were: T. H. Fuqua and wife, Frank Walshall and wife, Misses Maude Randle, Faye Lackey, Mary Cobb, Messrs. Brag and Sank Hopson and Dr. Herbert Cunningham.

RAILROADS WIN.

Lease of Track From Louisville to Lexington Valid.

The Kentucky Railroad Commission handed down an important decision yesterday in the case of the Louisville Coal and Coke Company against the Louisville & Nashville and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads. It involved the rates of coal, mainly to points on the line of the Louisville & Nashville between Lexington and Louisville. The railroads were fully sustained in the rates which they have fixed for coal to points such as Anchorage. The contracts for the leases of the tracks of the Louisville & Nashville by the Chesapeake & Ohio from Louisville to Lexington were also sustained.

Gay World Condemns Fat.

The new medicine has rendered fat ladies de trop, that is to say "not in it," there is, naturally enough, much earnest inquiry among them as to the best methods of reduction. These demand being for something that will do the work without interfering with their meals or their leisure, eliminates everything of course but Marmole Prescription Tablets. Fortunately these pleasant, inexpensive (least of any—an effective quantity costs only 75 cents) little standbys of the over fat do nothing, but take off their 15 to 20 ounces of fat a day without a particle of harm or a moment of injury to any one.

The Marmole Co., Detroit, Mich., by whose authority these tablets are made, guarantees them in strict accordance with the famous prescription, 5 ounce Marmole, 1/2 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara, 1/2 ounce Sassafras, 1/2 ounce Syrup Simplex, and this, as any druggist who has put it up (and most of them put it up several times a day) will tell you, is quite harmless—no such that it doesn't cause even a wrinkle.

INJUNCTION HOLDS GOOD

State Printer Hedden Cannot be Removed at Once.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 2.—The Injunction restraining the State Printing Commission from removing J. W. Hedden from his position as Superintendent of Public Printing is to remain in full force and effect until the case can be heard on its merits at the September term of the Franklin circuit court.

The case was taken up this afternoon before Judge Stout, and tonight he decided that he was not ready to give his opinion of the law in the case until a further hearing has been had. He ordered the case set for trial at the September term of court. This afternoon Judge James Breathitt, Attorney General, appeared for the State commission and entered a denial of the statement that the board intends to remove Mr. Hedden. Judge J. H. Hazeleigh appeared for Mr. Hedden.
